

BC Rural Site Visits Program - Meeting Guide (First Nations Health Services)

These questions are used as a guide to facilitate our meetings with First Nations health service administrators & managers, and health practitioners who provide services to First Nations communities or health centers. This guide is a living document, and evolves based on feedback and input we receive from the community members we meet with.

1. Tell us about your community.
 - a. What are its unique features? (Special populations, relationships, notable services, catchment area, etc.)
 - b. What works well in the context of your work?
 - c. What supports do you have?
 - d. Connection with FNHA? Relationships with other nearby communities? Relationship with municipality? With health care providers?
 2. Tell us about the health services available to the community.
 - a. What services are currently provided? Regularly or occasionally? Allied health services?
 - b. What services would you like to provide?
 - c. What services are currently at risk?
 - d. Tell us about emergency transport services
 3. Tell us about your isolation.
 4. Tell us about geographical context.
 5. Tell us about locums in your community.
 6. What innovations have you developed?
 - a. What can other sites learn from you?
-
1. What are you proud of?
 2. What keeps you up at night?